Teacher Feedback Sheet on Analysing an Experiment

Effort: 1 2 3 4 5

With guidance, you can state a basic pattern or conclusion from your experiment.	You can independently state a basic pattern or conclusion from your experiment.	You can independently state a detailed pattern or conclusion from your experiment.
With guidance, you can select one piece of data to support your conclusion.	You can independently select two pieces of data to support your conclusion.	You can independently you can select several pieces of data to support your conclusion.
With guidance, you can use units with pieces of data.	You can independently use units with some pieces of data.	You can independently use units with all pieces of data.
With guidance, you can spot any results that don't fit the pattern (anomalies).	You can independently spot any results that don't fit the pattern (anomalies).	You can independently spot anomalies and use the keyword 'anomaly' correctly.
With guidance, you can suggest one reason why you may have obtained anomalous results.	You can independently suggest one reason why you may have obtained anomalous results.	You can independently suggest several reasons why you may have obtained anomalous results.
With guidance, you can write about the basic science behind your conclusion.	You can independently write about the basic science behind your conclusion, with some keywords.	You can independently write about the detailed science behind your conclusion, with several keywords.

WWW:

EBI:

