Worksheet 11.6

Forensics: Crossword

Answers

ACROSS

2. An organised collection of data, arranged for easy and speedy retrieval

3. A doctor who specialises in interpreting test results and physical evidence, in relation to the causes of disease and other illnesses

5. A person believed to be involved in committing a crime

9. Scientist who studies the science of life

10. Light that cannot be seen with the eye

12. A kit used for handling hazardous materials

13. A type of fingerprint pattern

16. An imitation or copy of something that is made to deliberately deceive

18. An obligation, responsibility, hindrance or something that causes a disadvantage

19. A scientist who studies the life of plants

20. A person who attacks another person

21. The crime of deliberately setting fire to something, with the intent to damage it

22. Anything that assists with a conclusion or judgement — for example, a testimony or material sample

DOWN

1. The science of mental processes, particularly emotional and behavioural characteristics

3. Another name for a ‘lie detector’

4. Fine threads that make up fabric and paper

6. A scientist who studies insects

7. A medically trained doctor who studies the mental condition and behaviour of patients

8. A series of patterns on a plastic film made by DNA, when processed to produce a DNA profile

11. The tiny evidence found at crime scenes — includes hair, fibres and soil

14. Examine closely to answer a question or solve a problem

15. A lawyer responsible for presenting the case against an individual who is charged with breaking the law

17. An instrument to indicate the distance travelled by a vehicle

19. To have a preference or inclination for a particular line of reasoning

© John Wiley & Sons Australia, Ltd