Physical and Chemical Changes

No new products or substances formed

New products or substances formed

Can often be reversed

Can only be reversed by chemical means

Does not involve breaking or forming chemical bonds

Involves breaking and forming chemical bonds

Physical and chemical properties of new substance are different to old substance

Physical and chemical properties stay the same

Involves a change of state or shape

Involves a change in chemical composition