Electrical Energy at Work

1. List all the electrical appliances you see used during this video.

2. What is everything on the earth is made of? _____

3. Atoms are made of two types of small particles. These are called _____ and _____.

4. A small commonly used device that gives and small even flow of electricity is _____.

5. Electrons that flow in only one direction are called _____ current.

6. A current that changes its direction is called an _____ current.

7. How does boiling water in power stations help to make electricity?

Electrical Energy at Work Answers

1. List all the electrical appliances you see used during this video.

   Should be at least five including: torch, microwave, tv, lights, computer, hair dryer

2. What is everything on the earth is made of? Atoms

3. Atoms are made of two types of small particles. These are called Electrons and Protons.

4. A small commonly used device that gives and small even flow of electricity is a Battery.

5. Electrons that flow in only one direction are called Direct current.

6. A current that changes its direction is called an Alternating current.

7. How does boiling water in power stations help to make electricity?

   Water boils to steam, which rushes out to push a fan that turns the generators to make electricity.